Howdy Yucky!

Welcome to our icky, sticky world!

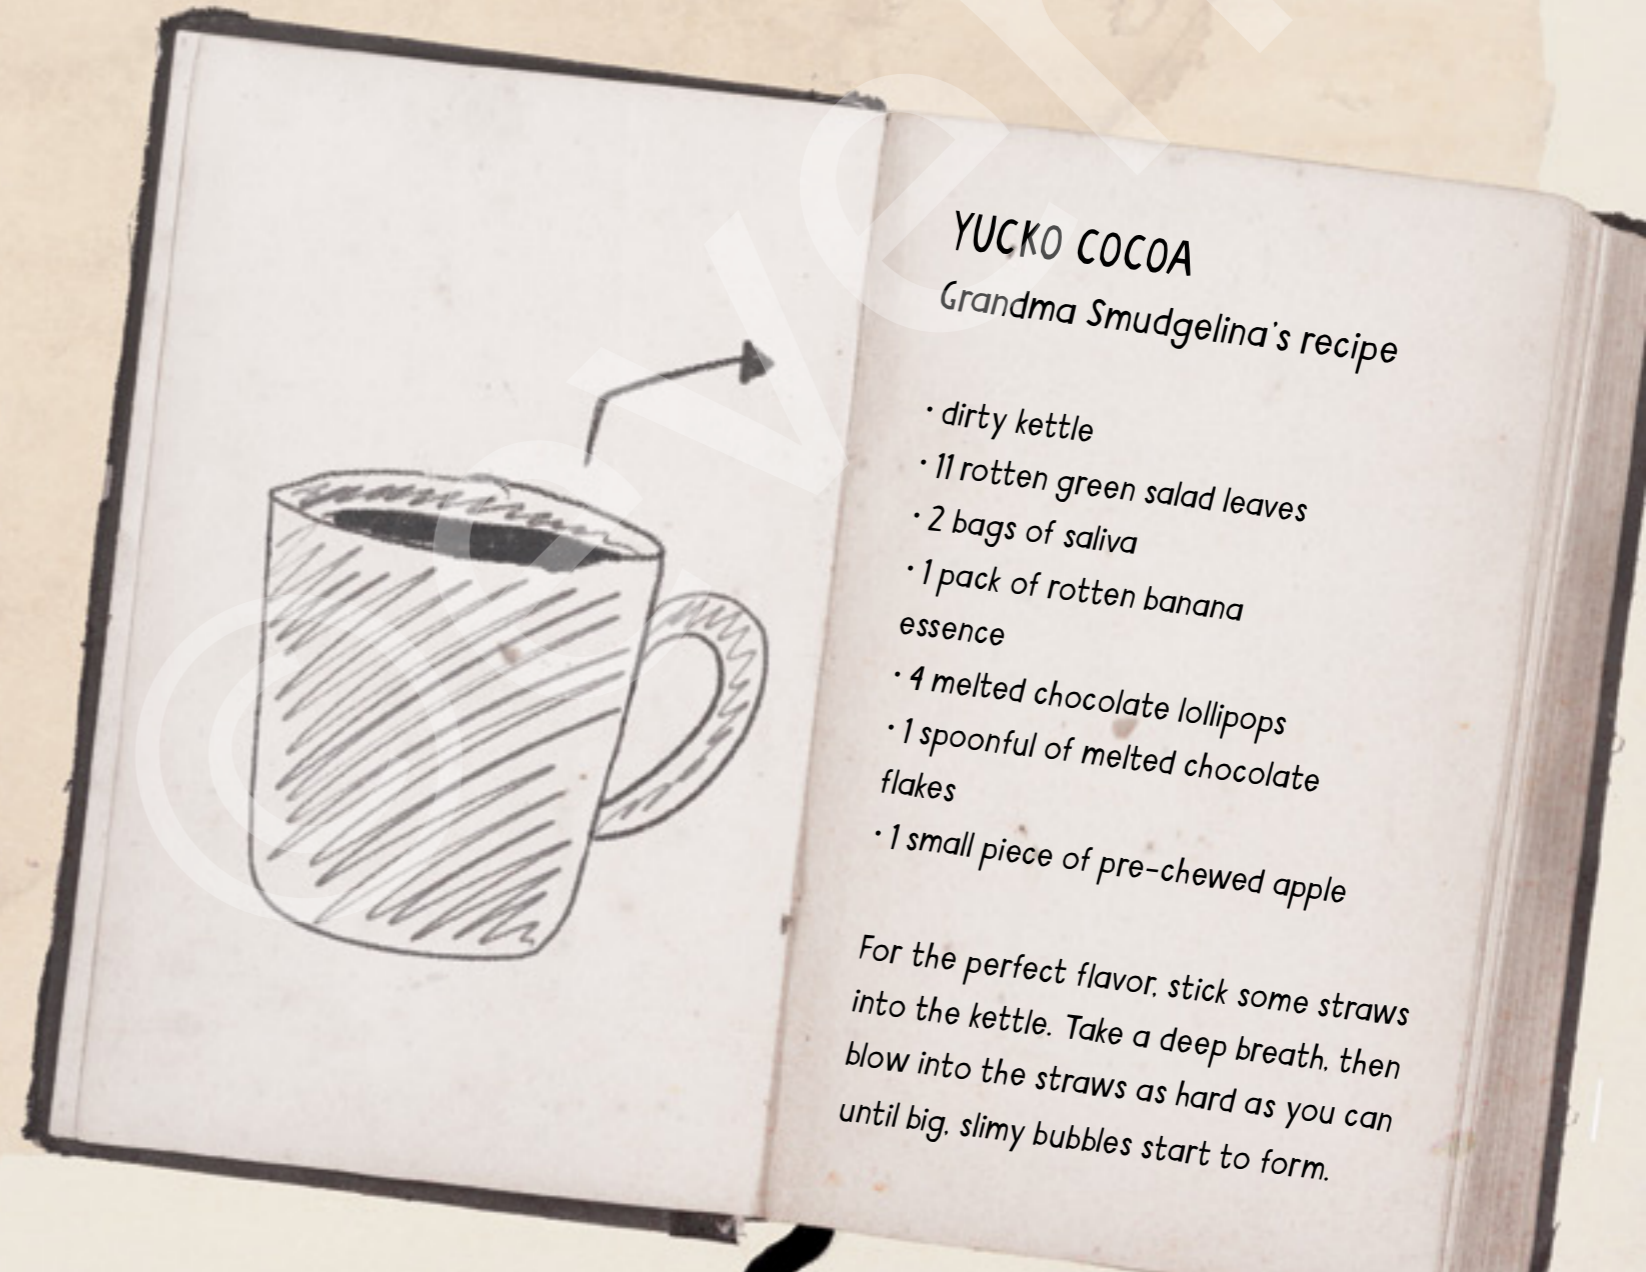

You'll surely agree with us that there's nothing as perfect in this world as a cup of warm cocoa. But do you know what YUCKO COCOA tastes like? If you're not a fan of brushing your teeth but love devouring chocolate, then there's probably a batch of yucko cocoa brewing in your mouth right now. And chances are, it's not very tasty. It might even give you a toothache. Curious about how you can save your teeth? This messy story has all the answers you need!

Buggy and Goopy, we're smelly little beings, get comfy and cozy, while we do our silly things!

Gooley flopped into a dusty armchair and sighed deeply, lost in thought as he remembered his grandma, Smudgelina. Everyone, absolutely everyone knows that even naughty little bacteria like Bugsy and Gooley adore their grandmas.

- Do you remember, Bugsy, how deliciously stinky grandma's yucko cocoa was? - Gooley asked, as he daydreamed about the sloppy, cozy drink. - Mmm, yucky! - Bugsy nodded, smacking his lips. - It was the stinkiest, slimiest chocolate drink in the whole world. If I had a cup right now, I'd slurp it down in a heartbeat! - You will have one! - Gooley shouted happily. He had just discovered the recipe for yucko cocoa that his grandma had left behind before she passed away from a cough syrup mishap.

YUCKO COCOA

Grandma Smudgelina's recipe

- dirty kettle
- 11 rotten green salad leaves
- 2 bags of saliva
- 1 pack of rotten banana essence
- 4 melted chocolate lollipops
- 1 spoonful of melted chocolate flakes
- 1 small piece of pre-chewed apple

For the perfect flavor, stick some straws into the kettle. Take a deep breath, then blow into the straws as hard as you can until big, slimy bubbles start to form.

Larry didn't care for toothbrushes or toothpaste, but at the same time, he absolutely loved drinking cocoa.

He had never heard of yucko cocoa, but one was about to start cooking... right in his mouth!

Bugsy and Goey weren't the best chefs, but the thought of grandma's yucko cocoa made their bellies rumble and mouths water. They couldn't wait - they had to cook it right away!

- Where can we find a dirty kettle? - Bugsy wondered aloud.

- And look at how much chocolate we need! Where are we going to get that much chocolate? - Goey asked, scratching his head. They thought and thought until the same idea popped into their heads.

- Larry! - they shouted.

Larry looves chocolate - milk, dark, white, caramel-filled, even sprinkled with coconut. He enjoys puddings, cakes, cookies, and ice cream with chocolate sauce.

Larry also enjoys apples, pears, broccoli, salads, and soups, but chocolate was his all-time favorite food.

This wouldn't have been an issue - except for one problem. Larry didn't like brushing his teeth. His teeth were already turning yellow, and he hadn't touched a toothbrush in a whole week. That's five whole days without brushing, plus two entire days over the weekend. Yuck!
