Priče grade put do srca

„Hey you! You, yes, you! Let me tell you a secret. To read this book, you need a special superpower. It's called focus. Not sure if you have this superpower? Don't worry, I'll help you find it. Take a deep breath as if you were smelling a chocolate cake... and exhale slowly as if you were blowing out the candles. Repeat that one more time. Do you feel it? That's your focus awakening. Just touch the tip of your nose with your finger and say out loud:

HOCUS FOCUS!

Now you're ready for this story.

Have you ever heard the story of a boy named Hocus? He is a passionate and big fan of experiments and inventor of new ideas.

One day Hocus decided to invent - Focus. It would help him complete all his ideas. It was a great idea itself, because our Hocus often could not finish what he started.

For example, whenever he started to write his homework, or read a book, his nose would start to itch or he would get very thirsty, so the homework would often remain unwritten and books unread. His dog Sniff, whom Hocus was supposed to take for a walk every morning, was not so lucky, because as soon as the boy saw a ball in his yard, he would start kicking it, forgetting about Sniff, who would just stand there with a leash in his mouth. They often didn't even go for a walk because Hocus got distracted.

But a perfect invention like Focus is not so easy to make. Hocus worked for days. He tested, added, subtracted, measured, combined, heated and cooled ingredients in many different combinations. He muttered strange formulas and noted every bubble that popped. In addition to his effort and work, he also needed the perfect spell. He cast spells, cast spells and finally succeeded!

– Hocus Pocus, the magic word is Focus! – Hocus finally shouted and invented the perfect Focus!
