Little bear fell in love with the museum

Robbie was running around and shouting loudly.: – No, no, no! I don't want to!
I won't go anywhere! I want to stay at home and play!

- We agreed that we would go to the museum today. – his mom said.
- But it's boring there! I can't touch anything!
- Come on, Robbie, take your toy, and let's go.

Robbie put his teddy bear in his backpack, as well as three little cars, two little knights, and a dinosaur. And so, the little teddy bear set off on his journey, squeezed into the bottom of Robbie's backpack. The dinosaur's tail poked his paw, but teddy didn't mind.

hey walked a little, rode a little, and then walked some more. When Robbie put his backpack down on the floor and took the teddy bear out, all the shaking made his little plush head spin a little.

He had no idea where they were. They weren't at home, or the kindergarten, or at grandma's. This place was full of light but very quiet. Unknown people were walking around, talking quietly to each other.

Robbie grabbed his teddy bear by the paw and started running. In Robbie's hands, little bear was flying like a superhero, so he didn't get to see where he was. Then Robbie sat down on the floor and took out all the toys from his backpack. And just as the super bear teamed up with the knights to save the cars from the dinosaurs, mum arrived:

– No, honey, you can't play here with your toys!

„Uh-oh, mum is angry,” teddy bear noticed.

– But it's so boring here and I want to play! – Robbie shouted. Now he was angry too. They quickly started collecting all the toys while mum was explaining to Robbie why he wasn't allowed to play there. Teddy bear was looking at her curiously, trying to figure out what exactly they did wrong. Maybe it was the dinosaur's turn to be a superhero? Just in case, he hid behind Robbie's leg and decided to cover his eyes and ears with his paws until everyone calmed down.

When all the commotion quieted down, he removed his paws from his face. He looked around and quickly realized that neither Robbie, nor his mother, nor his backpack was there! He was left lying alone and scared on the polished floor.

He whispered to himself: – I am a super bear, I am not afraid. That helped a little, but he was still worried because he was left alone.

Suddenly, two large hands lifted him. A cheerful man with a shaggy beard smiled at him and asked: – Oh, who do we have here? You're not old enough to be a part of the museum collection.

„So, this is a museum,“ teddy bear just realized.

– What do you have there, Henry? – a woman who was obviously Henry's colleague was also curious about the little plush toy.

– Someone forgot this little guy in the museum lobby.

– Oh, they'll be looking for him...

When he heard these words, the little bear sighed with relief. Robbie and his mum will notice that he is missing, and they will come back for him.

– They sure will, but until they do, he'll be my little helper, my little curator. – Henry said cheerfully.

– Great idea!

– Come on, teddy bear, it's time – Henry said and put a little hat on his head. – There you go, now you're a real bear explorer.
