BUGSY AND ★ GOOEY

AND YUMMY-YUCKISH
DINNER FUSS

The story about good bacteria

Bugsy and Gooley are two naughty bacteria that like to bother children like you with all kinds of smellythis, ichythis, feverithis, caughthis and boogerythis.

However, you would certainly agree on one thing. There is one special day of the year that both children and bacteria equally look forward to, and that day is Christmas!

– Jingle smells, jingle smells, stink all through the niiiight! They stink and toot, it's kind of cute, 'cause Christmas is in siiight! – Bugsy and Gooley sing loud and proud, all day long.

Eve loves decorating the house, baking cookies with her mom, and enjoying Christmas movies, songs, and stories. She loves to visit friends and family, and she also looks forward to all the Christmas gifts.

This morning, after decorating the tree with her dad and brother, she didn't notice that her hands were dusty from the decorations, so she put her dirty thumb in her mouth. Eve sucks her thumb when she's tired, and sometimes when she's excited, like today.

Little did she know that Buggy and Goopy had already boarded a long time ago on her thumb rocket and were ready to launch themselves for a bacterial Christmas dinner.

This year, dinner will be held at Smellyanna's great-great-great-great-ant Acidophilia, who has been living in Eve's belly since the day she was born.

The little girl Eve also eagerly awaits Christmas all year long.

Aaaand... today is finally the day!

Eve's family gathered around the table, and so did the bacteria in her stomach. Bugsy and Gooley were looking forward to celebrating Christmas and spending time with their families at the holiday table because it was the perfect opportunity for some new silly slimy jumbles.

And everything would be marvellous and splendid if there weren't Yummelia and Munchelia sitting at that same holiday table every year!

Yummelia is Bugsy's distant cousin, his grandpa's sister, his aunt's brother's daughter, and Munchelia is Gooley's distant cousin, his grandma's aunt, her brother's daughter.

Both of them are good bacteria that never make a mess, never get into trouble, are always polite, do good to everyone, and every child welcomes them in their tummy.

This beautifulness and kindnesses get on Bugsy and Gooley's nerves so much that as soon as they see them, they would voluntarily jump into a bubble bath out of misery.

Grandma Smellyana thanked their host Acidophilia for the invitation and hospitality and then invited all the bacteria present to express their Christmas thanks and wishes.

– Good feeling in the stomach! Health! Joy! That's what Christmas is about – both Yummelia and Munchelia agreed, and Bugsy and Gooley just rolled their eyes.
